SAVE OUR STATION

S O S

On Monday, November 14, a citizens committee, Save Our Station, (S.O.S.) announced its mission to rescue Tacoma's historic union station from ruin.

City councilman, Tim Strege, who has led city government interest in the station, claimed that "Tacoma and Pierce County people are coming to the rescue of our union station. It is a unique and irreplaceable structure that should be preserved. It represents the gateway to Tacoma -- a linchpin to further revitalization efforts that will connect the historic district to the city waterfront and the downtown with the Tacoma Dome. Someday, our children will thank us for saving the station."

Kathryn Van Wagenen, Pres. of Allied Arts of Tacoma-Pierce County and co-chair of the committee of S.O.S. said "we have received enthusiastic support in our goal to preserve and find appropriate ways to utilize the structure.

Co-chair, Linda Bowman, representing the Union Depot Historic District Association says, "More than 100 leaders and prominent citizens from business, labor, government, sports, art, neighborhoods, veterans, and other groups have unified to restore the station.

Strege announced council members, Barbara Bichsel, John Hawkins, John Lodenburg, Hal Nielsen, and he will co-sponsor a resolution to the City on Tuesday. The city staff would be directed to seek an option agreement from Burlington Northern for the Station and surrounding property at a price of $1."

Other S.O.S. officers include: Murray Morgan, Honorary Chairman; Gary Rabb of Moss-Adams CPA's, Treasurer; and Frank Petrich, Coordinator

The Save Our Station Office is located at 1716 Pacific Avenue across from the Union Station.

On Thursday, Nov. 17, the committee will hold their first fundraiser inside the station at 1713 Pacific, from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. A $15 per person donation is requested.

For more information, contact Tim Strege at 591-5100 or 565-6382.

HAVE YOU BELIEVED OUR REPORT?
SERIES #31
ISAIAH 53: 1 & 2

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground.

He hath no form nor comiliness: and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

WORDS OF WISDOM
PSALMS 1: 1-6

BLESSED is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he mediate day and night.

And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

The ungodly are not so: but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away.

Therefore the ungodly shall not stand in the judgment, nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

The Right To Personal Liberty

PERSONAL LIBERTY is the power of unrestrained locomotion. The right to exercise it springs from the fundamental laws of our being. The ever-recurring wants of the body, requiring continual labor for their provision, and the necessity of exercise to the healthy action of all its vital processes, render locomotion indispensable to animals existence.

Man shares these wants with inferior animals, and, were he their equal only, should share their freedom also. But he has other wants no less imperious than those of the body: knowledge, the aliment of the soul; and happiness, the object of its unceasing aspiration.

To supply these varied wants, he is constrained to employ his powers with unremitting care. Acting upon that enlightened sense of independence, which a knowledge of his nature and destiny alone can inspire, he pursues happiness in whatever paths it invites him; gives his days to labors, to study or to pleasure; remains in one place or visits all; in a word, in the exercise of liberty attains the full enjoyment of life.

A survey of the nations of the earth, to discover where the right of personal liberty has been, and now is, most generally understood, most highly prized and most effectually secured to every walk in life. And to observe the liberalizing and elevating influence which a just sense of it exerts upon the government which fosters and secures it, the vital energy which it imparts to the administration of public affairs, and the unfailing stimulus which it supplies to private enterprise, would prove alike grateful to the spirit of philosophic inquiry and flattering to the pride of an American citizen.

But it is the object, rather of the following pages to ascertain what are the limits of right; how it is secured, and how, when illegally assailed, it may most speedily be vindicated.

Tony Brown's Comments

Why You Wont Be Lynched This Year

Do we really need the N.A.A.C.P.?

Last summer, on successive days, Negroes attacked our largest and most viable civil rights organization on the editorial pages of the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal, two of America's most influential White news organs. But what distinguished these assaults from being ordinary legitimate debates over issues was their call for the extinction of the N.A.A.C.P.

Kenneth Clark, whose professional success is directly attributed to the N.A.A.C.P, paid it back on the pages of the New York Times with one of the most vicious and pathetically illogical arguments ever offered. The N.A.A.C.P. should disband because the board of directors is not White enough.

Therefore, his logic concluded, it is of no further use to Afro-Americans. The Wall Street Journal's equally irrelevant tirade by an obscure "labor consultant" also called for the death of the N.A.A.C.P.

His equally pathetic logic: the members of the board of directors do not spend enough time in the slums.

Although the question of this group's continued existence is germane and worthy of debate, these two men in their rush to judgement lost sight of the issue. It is also appropriate, in addition to questioning the Association's right to exist, to ask: "Why should I support the N.A.A.C.P.?"

Let's answer that question by asking two more questions. We should want to know what it has done for me lately and what it ever did for me.

In addition to being the only place that a Black can go when seeking redress for a discrimination grievance -- making it the major source of resources -- it also has a broader influence. For example, take television, the situation comedies on television project some of the most damaging racist myths, while keeping current old White supremacy folklore that would otherwise die without the indoctrination and recruitment of a new generation into these racist doctrines.

Conspicuous among this genre are two programs that further the belief that Black people are incapable and unworthy parents who have babies out of an erotic relationship, rather than a loving one. This results, of course, in the abandonment of the children to welfare systems or, in the case of television, outright abandonment to White parents -- who are, unlike Blacks, always caring and understanding -- to raise them.

Another situation does not need this psychologically dianostic approach to detect the racist characterization of television. In. "Just our Luck," the Black (Called "Shabu," an obvious variation of "Sambo") addresses the White as "Master."

I should say "did" because the N.A.A.C.P. Hollywood Chapter put a stop to it. Under pressure, the television network in question has revised the script and will offer to millions of Americans a story of two human beings -- equal in abilities and rights.

Could you as an individual have written a letter, as the N.A.A.C.P. did, and protected your child's mind -- and your own -- from the message of White supremacy? I know that I could not have accomplished the same thing as an individual. That's just one of the N.A.A.C.P.'s current gifts to our well-being as Afro-Americans.

Now let's look at the N.A.A.C.P.'s historic role in keeping bread and potatoes on the table, a roof over our heads (both in public housing and middle-class residential neighborhoods, without restrictive covenants calling for Whites only) and stopping the White lynch mobs from frying us in the South or hanging us at the end of a rope in the West.

Approximately 10,000 persons, mostly BLack men, were lynched between 1878 and 1898 alone. It was crusading journalist Ida B. Wells, co-founder of the N.A.A.C.P., and Walter White, Executive Secretary of the N.A.A.C.P. (and author of "Rope and Faggot: The Biography of Judge Lynch") and the N.A.A.C.P.'s persistent pushing of congressional antii-lynching legislation that led to the end of this barbaric rite.

In 1952, for the first time in 71 years, a Black man or woman was not dragged from bed in the middle of the night, beaten into submission and semi-consciousness by a howling mob of Whites and put to a slow, horribly painful death at the end of a rope or under the fumes of lighted gasoline, peeling away the skin and flesh --without a trial or even formal charges.

If you're young enough, you're even having difficulty believing that I'm telling the truth; and if you're old enough, you should be sick to the stomach because you remember when your luck could have run out like it did on those unfortunate men and women who died by lynching simply because God loved them enough to put melanin in the skin.

Today, that is almost an inconceivable fear. Almost because we're not free yet; inconceivable because of the safety net of civil rights laws spreads under us by the N.A.A.C.P. to protect our constitutional rights. It was also the N.A.A.C.P. that conducted the long and successful campaign to equalize salaries between Black and White teachers.

There is not enough space here to list all that the N.A.A.C.P. has accomplished on our behalf. Neither is there enough space to list all that we need to overcome in order to enjoy our birthright as Americans. This is all that I need to understand to know that we cannot let the N.A.A.C.P. die.

But I also recognize that we are killing it -- and the best chance we have for freedom -- by not joining. It's just that simple. By joining, you give it numerical, collective and political muscle -- as well as the financial resources to keep the dragons at bay. Moreover, it is neither important that you agree with the N.A.A.C.P. 's official position on every issue (-- I don't nor that you personally like all of its leaders. It's only important that you realize that your interests are best served by you serving the general interests of the Association.

Next week in this column, I will outline a plan that will significantly move Black America to a level that will force this country to concede our just demands -- and the N.A.A.C.P. is the cornerstone of that plan.

I realize that many of us will never see the broader picture, but will remain mired in petty jealousies and personal fears. That's why I'm not asking for a mass movement.

Instead, we need 4,000 Afro-Americans upon which we can start a Chain of Freedom. We need you to become a link in that chain. Read this paper next week for details.

TO BE EQUAL

John Jacobs

Much of the debate on whether a black candidate should enter the primaries as the representative of all blacks turned on whether or not such a strategy would advance black political interests. It was generally agreed that such a candidacy would be symbolic, in the sense that the candidate would not likely to win the nomination.

Now that Jesse Jackson has officially entered the race, such considerations are academic. There is a black candidate running now, and there is agreement that while that candidacy entails high risks, there may be some positives as well.

The risks are familiar -- weakening other candidates with a better chance to win who would favor policies black want; disillusionment among black voters, stimulating an anti-black "backlash" vote, and others. The positives too, are familiar, most especially the likelihood of sharply increased black voter registration and political participation.

The black share of the voting age population that actually votes is lower than the white rate. There is a persistent gap of about ten percentage points. In the 1980 election, for example, about half of eligible black voters who presumably would have voted for other candidates, as suggested by the voting patterns of blacks who did vote.

In New York, with its big block of electoral votes, Reagan beat Carter by 165,000 votes while almost 900,000 blacks sat out the election. In North Carolina, Reagan won by less than 40,000 votes as over half a million blacks went unregistered.

The growing realization of that unused political strength has led to massive voter education drives that narrow the black-white gap in voter turnout. In the 1982 congressional election for example, the gap was down to only 7 percentage points, the lowest in memory.

Many went to the polls to express their feelings about the change in national policies on civil rights and the economy, raising the question of whether it is necessary to have a black candidate running to increase black voter turnout.

But there can be no doubt that a black candidate will help get many to the polls who otherwise might opt out of the political process. It will not be enough however, to simply assume that a Jackson candidacy will automatically result in higher black voting.

Grassroots coalitions to register voters must increase their efforts and not trust to chance, for no matter how interested people become in the primaries, it will still take a lot of hard work to make sure they register and then vote next November.

All Americans, regardless of their political persuasion, should welcome Jackson's entry into the presidential sweepstakes as an expression of the right of anyone who meets the constitutional requirements of age and citizenship, to run for office.

At the same time, all blacks must be wary of allowing this candidacy to split the community along partisan political lines.

Many leading black politicians have misgivings about the candidacy and have endorsed others. Their belief that the best strategy for blacks is to have a strong presence in the camp of each of the serious contenders for the presidency, must be respected.

The important thing to remember is that the black community is not monolithic and there is no single candidate or party that can lay claim to black political loyalty.

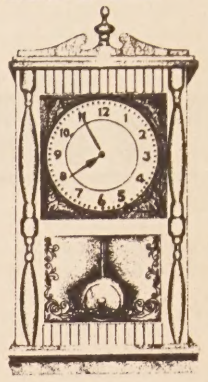
If this is recognized, then the latent positives in a black candidacy may well be realized.

It will be interesting to see how the media treat this candidacy, too. The first flush of coverage probably indicates media relief at finally having a candidate in the race who provides good copy and colorful quotes.

But the real test of media maturity will lie in how it covers the entire campaign. It must give Jackson's candidacy the same coverage and respect it gives to other candidates, including many who have far less of a chance to win and a lot less reason to run than Jackson does.

DIET FACTS & FALLACIES

EAT ON TIME, ON A SCHEDULE!



Few dieters realize the importance of a SCHEDULE to their dieting success. Your body needs a constant supply of nutrients to function at peak efficiency. That mid-morning or mid-afternoon craving or lightheadedness is usually a sign that your body needs more energy.

To avoid this feeling, and the lack of control that usually accompanies it, follow these rules:

- Devise a schedule suited to your lifestyle.
- Follow this schedule EVERY DAY; no exceptions, even weekends.
- Plan a lunch and dinner composed of lean meats, fresh salads and vegetables and whole grains.
- Plan in-between meal snacks of foods high in natural energy and fiber, such as fresh fruits or vegetables.
- Munch on an apple on your way home from the office or when you need a quick spurt of energy.
- Never wait until you are hungry to eat.
- ALWAYS, EAT ON TIME, ON A SCHEDULE!

Action To Assist Low Income

Public Utility Board members took vital action to assist low income Light Division customers Wednesday.

The approved package includes four elements:

-- A low-income elderly rate effective during the months of December through May;
-- $250,000 in matching funds for Project Need;
-- $2.2 million for low-income weatherization in 1984; and
-- A revised winter shut-off policy.

Board chairman Ella Crawford noted that this action formalizes the program proposed by the board to the City Council last month. It reflects the board's concern for those customers who need assistance in making their homes more energy efficient and in paying their electric bills. She said the board is pleased that this package would not require a rate increase next year since the program expense would be balanced against the Light Division's capital expenditures and controlled by periodic board review.

PSALMS 24-25:1-7

THE earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein.

For he hath founded it upon the seas, and established it upon the floods.

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place?

He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart, who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully.

He shall receive the blessing from the Lord and righteousness from the God of his salvation

This is the generation of them that seek him, that seek thy face, O Jacob. Se-lah.

Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in.

Who is this King of glory?

The Lord strong and mighty, the Lord mighty in battle.

Lift up your heads, O ye gates; even lift them up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in.

Who is this King of glory? The Lord of hosts, he is the King of glory, Se-lah.

UNTO thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.

O my God, I trust in thee; let me not be ashamed, let not mine enemies triumph over me.

Yea, let none that wait on thee be ashamed: let them be ashamed which transgress without ccause.

Shew me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths.

Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day.

Remember, O Lord, thy tender mercies and thy lovingkindnesses; for they have been ever of old.

Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions:

according to thy mercy remember thou me for thy goodness' sake, O Lord.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

LOTTERY™

Lottery Launches Two Instant Games

To celebrate the coming holiday season, the Lottery will begin sales of two new instant games Monday, November 14--"Money Match" and Holiday Cash." Lottery Director Robert Boyd "unveiled" the two tickets, along with the television advertisements and other material at a news conference today in Seattle.

"Money Match" features a top Grand Prize of $1,000 a week for life. On the average, better than one ticket in five wins a prize.

The game is played by scratching off the six latex-covered "$" spots to reveal prize amounts. A match of three prize amounts is the winning prize. Prizes will be a free ticket, $4, $5, $100, $1,000 or $25,000.

Each lottery ticket will cost $1.00.

A new way of qualifying for the grand prize drawing is incorporated into each "Money Match" ticket, which features the usual scratch off portion to determine the instant winnings, plus an attached stub. Whether or not a player holds a winning ticket, the appropriate stubs could allow them to become a finalist for the Grand Prize Drawing, too.

By scratching off the latexed "W" spot on the attached stub, a single letter will appear -- an "E", "N", "T", "R" or "Y". To qualify for the preliminary Grand Prize Drawing, a player must collect five stubs spelling "ENTRY" and mail them, along with his or her name, address and telephone number, to: Washington State Lottery Grand Prize Drawing, CS11425, Tacoma, Washington 98411-0425.

The second Lottery game is a seasonal "mini-game" called "Holiday Cash" which boasts the highest instant prize yet--$100,000. A limited number of tickets will be available, with all of the prize money put directly instant winnings. There will be no grand prize drawing in "Holiday Cash." "Holiday Cash" tickets, which are slightly larger in size compared to all of the other tickets offered to date, will be sold for $2.00 each.

Players win by scratching all six latex-covered "$" play areas and by matching three of the same dollar amounts. The winning prize amounts are $5, $10, $20, $100, $500, $1,000 and $100,000.
